With new workplace models, headphones are becoming increasingly important. When choosing a headset with print, the Blaze light-up logo headphones should come to mind. A comfortable headphone and the recipient is immediately delighted. Foldable headphones like these are easy to store. The built-in music controls of these in-ears allow switching between music and calls with the included built-in microphone. Connecting to a device is easy via Bluetooth. The connected device and the headphones can be up to 10 m apart. A fully charged battery provides 3 hours of listening pleasure. This article is engravable and then shows the engraving lit up. The so called Light up logo means that there is a LED under the engraved part that therefore makes the engraving shine when the article is used. So extra attention for your logo. The headset is ideal to put your logo, contact details or slogan on it. This is how your company is seen every day.
